Life's off balance: Let's steady the ship

It is said: Saakshi drishta nirguno kevalashca (a detached observer is without any quality). The one who is a detached [observer] won't have any attachment towards anyone. Just as there are weighing scales. If this side or that side of the scales lowers, it won't be called balanced. Both the sides of the scales should be balanced and the needle should be stable above. Similarly, the intellect of a detached observer will be balanced. He sees everyone with a soul conscious vision. Everyone is a soul, they are mutually brothers. He doesn't see others in the form of a body and think: this one is a king, this one is beggar, this one is a Brahmin, and this one is a sweeper.

Being sakshidrishta doesn't mean that we simply keep observing and don't react at all, we let whatever happens happen. It means, we shouldn't be affected by whatever we see or hear. We take the information of whatever we see, whatever we hear and give it to God. Our responsibility is over. It is God's business to deal with it then. We shouldn't be entangled in any concept. If we have to be entangled, we should be entangled in the topics of knowledge. Otherwise, to entangling your intellect in the topics of the past can do harm. You cannot be benefitted with it. Whatever has passed is past.

Whatever is going to happen in the future, you should see it through the eyes of knowledge. If we become influenced, we won't be called sakshidrishta. If something bad is happening and someone is doing something bad and if we become influenced and lose our temper by his bad behaviour and anger, we aren't detached. He who is doing bad is doing that. We shouldn't see him despite seeing him. We shouldn't listen to it despite listening. If we aren't able to tolerate it, we should write and give it to God. We shouldn't take law in our hand. It is because the one who stays as a detached observer knows that the dynamic of actions is unique. One definitely gets the fruits of the actions he performs. If someone performs sinful actions, he does it for himself and if he performs merits, he does it for himself. As he sows, so shall he reap. We shouldn't have any reaction. No matter how many scenes change but a contented soul who is stable on the seat of a detached observer transforms every situation with the stage of the self by being a detached observer. We have to practice it from now onwards. We come across small tests now.

We will come across very big tests in future. To be stable and constant in them will be called [being] a detached observer. When we stabilize in that stage, we receive power. Just like, when someone is weak, he is given glucose to build up his strength. So, when we consider ourselves to be a bodiless soul, detached from the body, this stage of being detached performs the task of building up strength. By being detached, we will easily become the companions of God and equal to Him. This is the main practice. This is the first and last lesson of the stage of being detached, because in the end, when there is upheaval everywhere, we will become victorious only through the stage of being detached. Therefore, make this lesson firm. The author is solely responsible for this article. The publisher or editor are not responsible.

VINAYAKA CHATHURTHI CELEBRATED IN GREAT MANNER IN OUR NEIGHBOURHOOD

Residents of West Mambalam are welcoming Vinayaka Chaturthi this year, as always, with devotion and festive enthusiasm.

Thanks to the dedicated efforts of key organisers like T. Nagar Bala, Abishek, Nehru, and a few others, the Navadhanya Vinayagar, who has been blessing devotees from T. Nagar for the past nine years, has been brought to West Mambalam this year to mark the 10th annual celebration, adding grace and magnificence to the occasion. The 11-foot-tall Navadhanya Pillaiyar, installed at the entrance of Lakshmi Flats on Lakshmi Street, is placed not only to bless the residents of that neighbourhood but to bestow prosperity and grace on everyone who visits. Adorned with kilos of various lentils, cherries, raisins, and figs, the divine idol is a visual delight, bringing coolness to the eyes and inspiring the hearts of all who worship.

Further care has been taken to use only environmentally protected materials while moulding to see that at the time of immersion in the sea, it will feed the lives of sea living creatures without causing any damage to the environment.

To achieve these goals, they have patiently approached their elected representatives and municipal authorities over the years, hoping for solutions. Now, they believe that the grace of Navadhanya Pillaiyar will bring fruitful results to their efforts, as they await a bright future with unity and hope.

In appreciation of this wonderful initiative, the President of the Postal and Kamakshipuram First Street Welfare Association, Teepangudi S. Karpagaganesh, along with Secretary Tanjai K. Ramanathan, personally visited T. Nagar Bala to congratulate and honour him.

Encroachment on the footpath on G.N. Chetty Road

There has been a demand to remove snack stalls encroaching on the sidewalks on G.N. Chetty Road in T Nagar. New footpaths were constructed on both sides of G.N. Chetty Road in T. Nagar. These sidewalks are occupied by numerous snack and pushcart shops. As a result, pedestrians avoid the sidewalks and walk on the road, putting them at risk of accidents.

In addition, people who come to eat at snack and trolley shops park their vehicles on the road, causing traffic congestion.

Paramasivam one of the resident of Giri Street said that on G.N. Chetty Road, many shops are operating on the sidewalks. The smoke emitted from those shops irritates the eyes of motorists and pedestrians passing by, leading to minor accidents.

The sidewalks are disappearing due to encroaching shops. As a result, pedestrians have no way to walk and are getting hit by accidents.

The municipal authorities should remove the sidewalk shops before there is a loss of life in accidents, he continued.

Dog breeding center 'deserted' due to lack of equipment

In Saidapet, a six-crore rupees-worth of indigenous dog rescue center has been opened for over a month, leaving only three dogs. The center is deserted, lacking the necessary equipment.

A local breed dog breeding and conservation center has been built on an area of 11,773 square feet, with five buildings, at a cost of six crore rupees in the premises of the Government Veterinary Multipurpose Hospital in Saidapet. This center was inaugurated by Chief Minister Stalin on July 5.

Currently, there are only three dogs at the center. Furthermore, there are no equipment needed to treat them or prepare food. There are no CCTV cameras. Pet owners have expressed their opinion that the work has been opened without completion.

In this regard, officials from the livestock department said: Work is underway to purchase dogs for this center. Quality native breed dogs such as Kanni, Kombai, and Rajapalayam should be selected, tested, and purchased.

Also, you should buy puppies between three and six months old. Only then will they get used to humans and will be easier to care for, such as feeding them.

In that regard, we have decided to raise 32 puppies.

Currently, there are three dogs. The process of purchasing the remaining 29 puppies is underway.

As far as equipment is concerned, it is up to the higher authorities to decide. We have prepared and sent the list of required equipment. Depending on the financial situation, the procurement will be done soon. They said this.

Teynampet - Saidapet flyover designed using foreign technology

The State Highways Department has released details about the technology behind the new flyover to be built between Teynampet and Saidapet.

The construction of a 3.20 km flyover from Teynampet to Saidapet in Chennai is being carried out by the State Highways Department at a cost of Rs. 621 crore.

This is the first road overpass to be built over a metro rail tunnel in India. It was a major challenge to design. The pressure on the bridge should not affect the metro rail tunnels under the road. It was not possible to dig deep trenches to lay the foundation of the bridge.

Due to the low bearing capacity of the soil in this area, it was not possible to design the overpass with a shallow foundation.

To solve this problem, the flyover project was designed in consultation with Chennai Metro Railway, IIT Chennai, and technical experts from Britain and Germany.

For construction, precast structural steel components are being used to reduce the stress on the bridge. The foundation is being constructed to improve the bearing capacity of the soil.

For this, the safety of the Chennai Metro Rail tunnel, which runs 11 to 14 meters below ground level, has been ensured.

For this, a separate model has been created using the software 'Plaxis 3D' and the approval of the Chennai Metro Rail Corporation has been obtained.
